New Entrance to Dublin Port Tunnel

Monday 11th December 2006:

A new entrance to Dublin Port will be opened this evening from 9 p.m. Port users should be aware that there will be a new traffic lay out which means that the junction from East Wall Road onto Tolka Quay Road will be closed permanently.

Port bound traffic on East Wall Road, coming from the Annesley Bridge direction at the Tolka Quay junction will either turn left to access the port or right to continue southbound or access Alexandra Road.

Port bound traffic travelling north on East Wall Road, will now continue straight at the Tolka Quay Road junction (instead of turning right as before). This traffic will now enter the port via the new dual carriageway on Promenade Road, linking through the new roundabout and swept bend to Tolka Quay Road.

Traffic leaving the port will travel along Tolka Quay road via the swept bend and roundabout to Promenade Road. At the western end of Promenade Road, all traffic will turn south and split into two lanes one turning right towards Annesley Bridge and the other continuing south.

The entrance to Dublin Port has been upgraded as part of the Dublin Port Tunnel Works
